

The Slings and Arrows

Detour signs

Are the ones I've always followed
While looking for the end of the road
Forgetting that, if you find the end,
You've followed the wrong road.
The right road is a winding way
Twisting, surprising itself . . .
Curving in crossed infinity signs
If you want it to lead to something,
Ask only that it lead you to more of itself.
Otherwise, be grateful
You've found only the detours.